PROFILE

A recent graduate with a strong academic background in Doctor of pharmacy, I am eager to embark on a career in medical writing. My coursework has provided me with a comprehensive understanding of medical concepts and terminology, as well as experience in conducting research and writing detailed reports. During my studies, I developed a keen interest in medical writing as a means to bridge the gap between scientific research and the general public. I am enthusiastic about the opportunity to contribute my skills and grow as a medical writer, helping to communicate vital health information effectively and accurately.
