PROJECTS

SECURING DATA WITH ENCRYPTED K-NN DEFENDING AGAINST STATISTICAL ANALYSIS. | January 2024 - March 2024

- we proposed the use of the cryptographic algorithm AES (Advance Encryption Standard) for encryption and decryption. AES is used in educational institutions and departments to secure important educational certificates as well as data on educational details. AES operates on the basis of the substitution-permutation network principle, which entails a series of linked operations, some of which involve rearranging bits in the input data while others involve replacing them. By preventing major data loss and averting malicious circumstances, cryptographic algorithms are implemented to create the best possible learning environment.
